Accommodation solutions for construction and house builders

SGB Rovacabin understands that the construction industry is a busy and thriving environment that regularly requires temporary accommodation at very short notice.

From marketing suites for home developers, to office space on construction sites, we're ready to meet a diverse range of needs.

With the build schedule an integral part of the construction industry, SGB Rovacabin are focused entirely on providing the right accommodation solutions as and when you need them. Whether single cabins or complex site offices and contractors' compounds, all of our units are designed to withstand the demanding conditions of the construction site.

Versatile solutions

Your site accommodation needs to be secure, practical and durable whilst providing a pleasant, efficient environment for your team and contractors. Rovacabin offers a wide range of options to suit every type of project – from a simple site office to complex all-purpose compounds. Standard cabins have galvanized steel frames for strength and rigidity with composite wall panels and high specification doors and windows for comfort and security.

Practical and secure

Gone are the days when the kettle was the most valuable electrical item in the site office. Today security is a key consideration when choosing your cabin supplier. Rovacabin's standard cabins are robust, steel-framed units with double glazed windows and secure doors. They can be specified to include window grilles or roller shutters for added protection. However for maximum security we can also supply all-steel anti-vandal cabins featuring solid steel window shutters and high-strength doors.

Both types of cabin are available in a full range of sizes and specifications for use as offices, toilets and welfare accommodation. They can both be double stacked and standard cabins can be interlinked to create larger multi-office blocks.
